Paris, August 25. The frigate La Sybille is arrived at Brest. She quitted the fleet the 12th instant, in good condition. The fleet was then 100 leagues west of Cape Finisterre, fleering northward. From Mr Darby's letter of July 31. it appears, that Admiral Digby's fleet was pretty far from those parts when the combined fleets approached them on the 12th of this month. The Sybille has brought several letters, and as there are 7 or 8000 land forces on board, many of the officers think they shall fail towards St George's Channel, and attempt something on the enemy's coast. M. de Guichen was but two leagues from the main body of the fleet, when he dispatched

As Admiral Digby is quite gone off with his large convoy, we have no other hopes but of capturing the Jamaica fleet, which very likely will fail fo late as not to arrive in Europe till towards the equinox, at which time our fleets will be obliged to return into port.

L'Argonaute, of 74 guns, commanded by M. de Caque-ray, is failed from Rochford, with a small convoy, for St Domingo. It is probable that this ship will go by way of Sene-

Cadiz, July 30. The 28th of this month, 20 fail of Spanish merchantmen arrived here, after a passage of 40 days, from Montevideo, laden with hides, Vigogne wool, copper, tallow, the control of the control &c. under convoy of two privateers, who, on the paffage, took one of the Quebec fleet, and an English merchant frigue, na-

Paris, August 25. Letters from Cadiz of the 3d of this month, mention an infurrection having happened at Minorea. It is said, the inhabitants had rose against the garrison, and that they had been severely punished; that twenty of them have been hanged, and the others stripped of their arms. This disposition of the people, who must be still more exasperated at the punishment of their leaders, may prove favourable to the designs of M. de Crillon. These letters add, that the Commander Campbell, and Mr Dean, head of the marine at Penfacola, had been sent to the Havannah, as prisoners of war, for having infringed some of the articles of the capitulation.

Leghorn, August 15. Letters received here from the west-ward give it as sact, that 8000 Spanish troops have disembarked on the island of Minorca; that they are encamped there, and wait for the success against Gibraltar, to act according to further orders. Although there seems to be no room to fear any thing respecting that place, yet it appears incredible that 49 ships of war, actually at sea, under the command of Don Louis de Cordova, should have no other object than to intercept the storilla, escorted by Admiral Digby with only sour ships of the line. In the mean time we are very impatient to learn what will be the iffue of fo great a parade of military forces. It is faid that the English officers are under great apprehenfions for the defence of Gibraltar, in case of an affault, which can hardly be attended with success to the besiegers without fome little treachery on the part of these officers.

"High and Mighty Lords,
"The King my master had heard, with no less surprise than distatissaction, of the repeated acts of violence committed on the Ems by a West Friezeland guarda costa, commanded by Captain Tecke Romkes. An English trading vessel called the Change, freighted by Prussian merchants, has been taken by him, and carried into Delfzyl, the 6th of last July. His Prussian Majesty cannot be an indifferent spectator of an act that amounts so and that the cannot be an indifferent spectator of an act that which, if pursued, must tend eventually to ruin and that Embden, and, indeed, of the whole principality of East Frieze-Land. The mere restitution of the ship cannot be looked upon land. The mere restitution of the ship cannot be looked upon Embden, and, indeed, of the whole principality of East Frieze-land. The mere restitution of the ship cannot be looked upon by his Majesty as a satisfaction such as he may expect from the equity of your High Mightinesses, and their wishes to maintain inviolate the perfect amity and harmony that siblists between the two states. His Majesty therefore commands me to insist, that his subjects interested in the above ship be properly indemnissed by your High Mightinesses; and to inform you, at the same time, that he expects Captain Tecke Romkes's conduct will draw upon him some mark of your resemment.

es, to the different boards of Admiralty of the States-General, can alone maintain the uninterrupted freedom of navigation and commerce on the Ems, the King has not a doubt but you will readily adopt those measures which can best promote that object; and the more so, as the benefit even of the subjects of the republic is greatly concerned in it.

"The underwritten hopes that a satisfactory resolution on the subject of this memorial will be soon passed by your High Mightiness, and he will with eagerness transmit it to the King his master.

The havoc made a-mongst the Spanish inhabitants is reported to be so great, that all opposition was at an end, and that the natives were pro-ceeding to establish a form of government of their own. Yesterday morning, about one o'clock, a fire broke out in the dwelling-house of Miss Todd, in Cambden-street, Islington, which entirely consumed the same with the whole of the houshold furniture, &c. Miss Todd, and her sister, with much difficulty, escaped from the window of the second floor, and the maid-servant threw herself from the same window on a feather-bed, but happily received no burt. The parish engines being in good repair, extinguished the fire before any engines from London could play thereon. All the goods and furniture were consumed, but, by the party walls, the sire was prevented from damaging the houses on each side. From the London Papers, Sept. 4. LONDON.

The following are the principal particulars of the news from

Commodore Johnstone failed from St Jago on the 1st of May, the day before the Porto floop failed for England, having refitted all the thips that fuffered in the engagement with the French in Port Praya harbour; and after keeping company French in Port Praya harbour; and after keeping company fomewhat more than a fortnight, the thirteen Indianen, with a convoy of two men of war (the Hero of 74, and Monmouth of 64 guns) parted, their route lying a different way. The Commodore, with the Romaey, Ifis, and Jupiter of 50 guns each, Diana, Active, Jafon, and Mercury frigates, Shark, Rattlefnake, and Lark floops, Infernal fireflip, Terror bomb, and Elizabeth bomb tender, feven armed transports, nine victuallers, and three floreships, pursued his way, and about the middle of June arrived fafe at the mouth of the river of Rio del Plata, which is 100 miles broad. Monte Video, from whence his letters are faid to be dated, is a fort 100 miles up the river. Buenos Ayres is fill 100 miles higher. This laft is the capital city, the feat of the new government.—The military force the Commodore has with him are the 42d, Fullarton's, and Colonel Humberstone s regiments, about 3000 in number: With these it is supposed he may effectually scour the coasts, and affift the revolters in their resultance to the Spanish government; a matter that must prove of the most ferious con-fequence to the Court of Madrid. In this neighbourhood the mines of diamonds, gold, and filver, are faid to be more plenti-before the Commodore arrived.

Though the arrival of the combined fleet on the coast of this kingdom, feems at prefent to be confirmed by fo many letters and advices from different parts of the kingdom, yet there are not wanting fome, who still entertain their doubts of the truth of this intelligence. The spirit of trade generally carries with it some suspicion of artisce, and in this light these gentlemen confider the late reports concerning the French and Spanish ffects, as having no other foundation than what they derive from the invention of the underwriters, who have cunningly propagated fuch ramours, to raife the price of insurance. In pport of this, they quote a letter from Mr Stephens to the Mayor of Briftol, dated the 28th August last, wherein that gentleman, in answer to one from the Mayor on the subject, fays, that he is " commanded by the Lords Commissioners of the Admiralty, to acquaint him, that their Lordinips have reafon to conclude, that the intelligence upon which the informa-tion was given has been without foundation." St. James's Chron.

But to this letter is opposed another from Admiral Shuld-ham, of the 30th, addressed likewise to William Miles, Esq; the present Mayor of Bristol, in which the Admiral fays, he thinks " it necessary to acquaint him, by express, that, on the evening of the 28th instant, the combined floet of the enemy, confifting of 34 or 35 fail of the line, was feen about five or fix leagues to the east of Scilly, and that there is great reason to apprehend they are now in the Channel." Ibid.

In thore, the general opinion at present is in favour of the report, to which it is added, that even Government themselves are now convinced of the truth of it; and, according to information received by us last night, from a very eminent house in. the city, a part of the squadron has actually been seen off Weymouth. - Ibid. It is now faid, that the reports of Sir Henry Clinton's refignation or recall are without any foundation; as it is intended, in order to accomplish the American reduction, that the Commander in Chief at New York shall remain in a manner passive in his own operations, unless the utmost probability appears of his attacking the grand American camp with fucce or in defending New York against any of their attacks: His bufiness being chiefly to regulate the supplies and re-inforcements to our fouthern army, in both which points Sir Henry-has behaved to the fatisfaction of his Majesty.

It has leng been notorious, that Lord fleep at the helm, and is not wakened by the thunder of the cannon of France and Spain on land or fea; but there is one that fleeps founder than he, and is not disturbed in his slumbers by the relignation of the bravest officers in our fleets and armies The gallant Parker has at length refused to act under so weak and drowfy an Administration!

It is faid, notwithstanding the daily finking of the funds, the inancier is in good spirits, and makes no doubt but he shall find friends enough to fubscribe the twenty-fix millions for the

The two Danish ships which arrived at Copenhagen from China the 2d ult. have brought letters from China, dated December 31. 1780, the tenor of which is, that a Danish ship, of 17,79, remained then at Capton ; that three others had arrived there in 1780; but that one of them, the Sophia Frederica, that had already taken in three fourths of her lading, unfortunately blew up; and that these Danish ships were joined, at different times, in the same port, in the course of the same year, 1780, by three Swedish ships, four Durch ships, and 24 English ships, 12 of which belonged to the English East India Company, and the other 12 to particular commercial houses of the same nation. One man only was saved of the whole crew of the Danish ship, the Sophia Frederica. These letters add, that the Emperor of China had condemned to flavery two famous Chinese merchants, who were some millions in arrear, part of which was due to the treasury. Their names are Inkfia and Kousia; they had great connections with the Dutch East India Company.

On Saturday a French merchant of this city received a letter from Paris, which mentions, that on the 26th ult. died Count d'Estaign; that his death was occasioned by a wound he received in America, which broke out afresh, and turned to a mortification.

It is faid that our Minister at the Court of Constantinople has opened a communication with the East-Indies, by the way of Ispahan, in Persia .- A scheme of this nature might be reduced to practice without being attended with any great diffi-culty. The Persian merchants go annually to our East-India fettlements, and a messenger from thence might return along with them. In that the dispatches would be forwarded to Con-liantinople, and from shonce to Britain. By these means, we should receive news from Asia in one half of the time we do by fea. It would prevent the too frequent fluctuations of our flocks, and keep up the fpirits of our merchants, who are often kept in the greatest anxiety for the fate of that property which is at fuch a distance from home.

By Saturday's Dutch mail we learn, that advice was received at Amsterdam from Port l'Orient, of the Dutch East-Indiamen, which have been so long lying at Cadiz, being safe arrived at that port. They failed in company with the combined arted from them on the 15th ult. in lat. 47.

The intelligence received at Lilbon, by the way of the Brazils, from Captain Macdowall, of Commodore Johnston's fquadron, gives us room to hope, that before this time the effects of the expedition are already felt by the Spaniards, and that they will foon have reason forely to repent of having become the dupes of French councils and encouragers of Colonial rebellion. Capt. Macdowall was detached from the fquadron to convoy a packet of the East-India Company to a certain latitude, and having the prieft on board, (who brought the ti-dings of the rebellion in South-America early last winter) went to land him where he could most conveniently find his way to encourage the natives till the arrival of our fquadron, which has not only fome troops under an officer of eftablifacd military reputation on board, but also forty thousand stand of arms, which, by the manner in which they were finished, could be intended for no other country. The Spaniards, cut off from the returns of the gold and filver mines of South-America, will find no great resources in Old Spain, and but very little from

Captain Macdowall's prize, which the morning papers call a Manilla-man, worth a hundred thouland pounds, we believe is only a Buenos-Ayres ship, who a cargo of hides, which may probably realize about 40,000 l.

The anxiety of the Spaniards to get poffession of Gibraliar where their interest was or much greater importance. The benears we have derived from these garrisons have been a million times overpaid. If we lose them, we lose the expence; but if we bring about a revolution in South-America, we may be paid for our trouble, not only from the gold and filver mines, but by depriving an enemy of the finews of war.

Much has been done in Holland to impress the minds of the people with an idea of their countrymen being victorious in the contest with Admiral Parker. To Deum has been fung, medals, chains, belts, hangers and epaulets have been buffowed; but the fensible part of the people, who knew that Admiral Zoutman failed with eight two decked ships, and returned with only sive, and these sive so severely mauled that it was doubtful whether they could gain a port, and that in the Dutch account the loss in the thips that returned exceeded the English loss one fourth, will not be missed by empty parade. They had no English pendant brought on board Admiral Zoutman's ship; they know that all the English fquadron returned safe to port; they will foon know that most of these ships will very soon be in a condition to return to the fame feas, and they will draw conclusions not very favourable for purfuing a war against their

It is faid that the combined fleets are cruizing between the latitudes of 47 and 49 to protect their own ships that are expected home, and to intercept ours; but it is to be hoped that, if they are so very powerful as some people report, our West. India fleet will freer to degrees to the northward of the Admirals Cordova and Guichen, who may perbaps make as unfruitful a cruize as the combined ficet did two years ago.

It is reported that certain advices have been received that the major part of the French fleet is gone away to the West-Indies; but as fo large a fleet could not have been equipped for fuch a voyage without their defigns being known, it argue a greater want of information and attention in the Admiralty Board than any they have bitherto been accused of, if proper measures have not been taken to counteract such a manœuvre of the enemy.

It is believed that M. de Graffe went from the West-Indies to America in July last; but it may be hoped, if Sir George Rodney was to follow him, he will return to his station before the European fleet arrives.

Three frigates, and five fivift failing cutters, have been fent off from Portmouth and Falmouth, with dispatches for the King's contby with the Jamaica and Leeward illand fleets; ordering them to make the first port they can in Ireland, or, if they find they cannot fetch that illand, to proceed North about for Leith-readt.

Extract of a letter from London, Sept. 4. The friends of Lord George Gordon had a general meet-th night, in order to support him in his application to the of London, for representing them in Parliament, in om of the late Mr Alderman Hayley; but the prevail-ition is, that he will not fucceed. His great friend, man Bull, is engaged for Sir Watkin Lewes. There ofe, however, who are very fanguine for Lord George on; and give out, that he stands upon ministerial ground, at Alderman Clark is to give up in his favour, in order he Lord Mayor may not come in.

The news from Commodore Johnstone is in such few that is very difficult to get at the truth; but it is faid nadron were arrived in the Rio del Plata, and were pre-to commence fome operations: Monte Video is on the ide the river, seven leagues from it mouth: The capital duenos Ayres, is 30 leagues up: The river is 100 miles

Extract of another letter from London, Sept 4. this evening an express arrived at the Admiralty, with ount that the combined fleet of France and Spain was ear Plymouth; in consequence of which, it is said that odore Stewart will be ordered to reinforce Admiral Darth all imaginable speed, in order to render him strong to give the enemy battle. Another express is also said to be received, advising that ch squadron, consisting of seven fail of the line, is arrived rwich. This piece of intelligence, however, does not the credit given to the other, though it is affirmed by of the first consequence to be well-founded.

What adds greatly to our alarm, on account of the ap-te of the combined fleet being in the Channel, is, that nch have fifteen fail of the line lying in Brest, ready to their affiltance, in a few hours after an order for that ommercial people are under the extremest anxiety for ty of their homeward-bound fleets. The Jamaica, Leeflands, and East India fleets, are each of them in the minent danger. The only chance they have of efcaping bined fleets, is, that some of the frigates or cutters fent earch of them, may give them norice to go north about, into Ireland. Some people, however, hope, that the ill blow the enemy out of the Channel before those fleets expected, they not having failed from Jamaica and the rd Islands fo foon as was at first supposed.

ord George Gordon makes but little way in his canval's. determined, however, to fland the poll. Alderman hend has given up, and declared himself in favour of the Mayor, who is expected to carry his election, at least he present appearance of things.

Whatever may be the fears of the public in our prefent og fituation, upon mature reasoning and reflection they tally vanish. The formidable appearance of 50 ships of in the Channel, may feem to threaten the total annihiof our inferior force; yet, neverthelefs, it would be im-able in the ocean, much lefs fo in the narrow feas, to many ships into a regular engagement. It may be ur-at although they could not all engage at the same time, enemy would have thips to replace those which might pled in the action. It was much easier to affert this effect it. Ships placed in a line of three or four miles are not removed to a flation in which they may be re-in an inflant. The advantages we should have, in besear our own coast, would balance the disparity of rum-if we found ourselves worsted, we could with ease re-At all events, circumstances seem to point out the neof an engagement; by declining the present opportunity, 7 Put off the evil day; we may not be in the fame ffrength of the enemy at home next year, as at prefent; we may have nother power to contend with, which of confequence taken our defence. There is not a doubt but it will baffle cas of the enemy in interrupting our homeward-bound fleets, though in their present situation their object may be defeated, by fending out a fufficient number of cruizers, to warn our convoys of the danger. The following calculation of our home force, will evince to the public the truth of the above arguments. Admiral Darby's fleet confifted of 21 fail of the line, when he returned to Torbay: There are ready for fea at Portfmouth, the Hercules 74, Agamemnon and Ptothec 64. Com-modore Stewart's fquadron confifts of the Princels Amelia 80, Berwick and Fortitude, 74; Africa, Bienfaifant, Sampson, and Sceptre, 64; Buffalo, 60; the Suffolk 74, in the Downs; to which we may add the Cambridge 80, Dilgent 70, Dunkirk 60, guardhips in port; which, on fuch an occasion, may fafely be put in the line of battle. These will amount to 38 ships, exclusive of sifties (of which they are fix row at home ready for fea). If the combined fleets are manned, and in the condition when they were in the Channel two years fince, there is no doubt but we should gain a victory; though it would not perhaps be prudent to risk any loss upon that supposition.

"By collecting the whole of our home force in the Channel, it may be apprehended our Northern coasts would be subject to the depradations of the Dutch. It will be a sufficient opportunity to them to fend their merchant ships to the Baltic; not the least is to be dreaded of an invasion; they will have other more material objects in view. The disappointment they have already met with in their convoy putting back will cause them to attend to the expedition, without which they will findit difficult to carry on the war. If this fortunate diversion for the Dutch had not happened, it is probable they would have found it difficult to have forced their passage through the powerful squadron we should have had in those seas. We may be able to effect the dispersion of the combined sleets, and return in fufficient time to intercept the Dutch fluet from the Baltic. must be the sincere and ardent wish of every Briton; let us be unanimous at home, and we have nothing to fear from our enemics. Britannia is involved in a sea of troubles, but to rise with the greater fplendour."

There can be little doubt of Commodore Johnstone's principal object being against South America. The circumstance of his carrying along with him the Jesuit Priest, of whom we have frequently had occasion to take notice, when in this country, and which may be depended upon as fact, must convince every one, that the Commodore, however he might chuse to make a fecret of his real destination, meant, from the beginning, to askilt the revolters in that quarter of the world.

The conduct of Admiral Parker, fays a correspondent, in religning his command, feems to be very unjustifiable. Even according to his own account of the matter, he did no more than his duty. But, if the Dutch account is the real one, he certainly did much left.

Bon Mot .- A gentleman reading in the news papers, that the reason Admiral Darby had come into Torbay, was in or-der to get a supply of fresh water; "Possibly" (lays one who heard him) "this may be one reason; but if Darby be like "fome other Admirals of our grand fleets, he has more need of a supply of fresh spirits than of swater."

By a letter lately received from Gibraltar, it appears, that the Spaniards had for some time given over firing upon the garrifon, and that every thing there was quiet; nor were they under the least apprehension as to its fafety."

This day, arrived in town from London, last from his Grace the Duke of Northumberland's feat at Alnwick, the celebrated Mr Breslaw, who, on different occasions, has both amused and aftonished the public.

Thursday night arrived from London, the Right Honourable Lord Viscount Townshend.

An attempt was intended by Luke Ryan and his affociates, prisoners in the castle, to get off; but information being received of their defign, feveral instruments with which they were to effect their escape, were discovered, and the prisoners put into closer confinement.

On Wednesday last, one of the largest carronades ever made was tried at Carron. It carries a ball of a hundred pounds weight. The power of this great inftrument of deftraction is immense, and it is as easily worked as a loop twenty-four pounder. It answered extremely well all the trials and experiments that were made.

At a meeting of the Society of Antiquaries, held on Tuesday last, at their nusleum in the Cowgate, the Right Honourable the Earl of Mansfield, the Right Reverend the Lord Bishop of Downe and Connor, and the Lord Bishop of Rhodez in France, were elected honorary members.

Many valuable donations were presented at this meeting; and a resolution taken, to celebrate the formation of the Society, on the anniversary of the 14th of November.

Thursday se'ennight, the 30th ule. John Orr, Esq. of Barrowfield, advocate, one of the town-clerks of Glasgow, was unanimously chosen Dean of the Faculty of Procurators there, in place of Mr John Buchanan deceated.

Tuefday laft, a fire broke out in a kiln at Yocker, parish of Old Kilpatrick, which was burnt to the ground, with upwards of 100 bolls of victual. At Campbelton, upon Thursday last, 200 volunteets, com-pletely armed, and dressed in uniforms, were reviewed by Mr Campbell, Chamberlain to the Duke of Argyll, when they went through their exercise to the satisfaction of the spectators; They afterwards marched to the church, where an excellent fermon was preached to them by Mr Mollifon. It is much to be wished, that other to as in Scotland would adopt a smilar plan. The arms for the town of Campbelton, we are informed, were furnished by Government.

It is with particular pleasure we inform our readers, that, a few days fince, on opening the boxes belonging to the Charity Work-house of this city, there were found Three Guineas in Bank notes, deposited by some well-disposed person. In-stances of charity so truly disinterested, while they demand the grateful acknowledgment of those immediately concerned, de-ferve to be mentioned for the honour of human nature.

The peals of thunder were altonishingly loud, and the slashes of lightning were to frequent and strong, as to make many think the city was on fire. The storm continued, with little intermission, for upwards of two hours. We have not heard of any damage being done by it, though it appears to have been felt for many miles round.

Extract of a letter from Kilmarnock, Sept. 4. Friday last, about two of the clock in the morning, there came on at this place a most terrible storm of thunder and lightning, accompanied with heavy showers of rain, which continued for about the space of two hours, and was so awful and alarming, as to strike the greatest terror among the inhabitants, and country villages around. The oldest people do not remember fo awful an event; but, to the great and unipeakable fatif-faction of this town, and country adjacent, no damage has hap-

"The only ill effect felt by the inhabitants of this kingdom, except the high infurances on imported goods, which, when it is confidered they are mostly articles of luxtry, are of little confequence, is the interruption of the infant fifteeries on our coalts meets with from a fearcier of mariners and fifteeries on our coalts meets with from a scarcity of mariners and fishermen, all the young, frong, and adventurous having been either pressed or allured to serve on board the royal navy. DIALOGUE

Hound, Cuk-Dog, and CERBERUS.

[Concluded from our last.] HOUND.

YOU fill purfue your fnarling trade, And shew the use for which you're made. I, to a nobler end delign'd, With fcent and mufic am refin'd; And health and vigour did impart, To glad the sportsmens joyous heart, Who, keen and eager, me pursue, Not fuffer'd out of found or view.

Delighted with the founding horn, And blushes of the ruddy morn, Their sportive steeds, all sweat and foam, O'er hedge, dale, drain, and valley roam, Inflinctive led, the' out of breath, To bear their riders at the death; Health in their eye, joy in their fmile, Denoting freedom in the iffe!

The chace once o'er, and mafters fed, We fill our paunch, and go to bed, And next day rife, in health and glee, To make the flag or fox to flee, And be carefs'd by sportsmen kind, Whose kind caresses please, and bind.

to a marine principle. You brag as if you pleafure gave To sportsmen: pray, except the knave, The mifer, book-worm, debauchee, Who not one pleafure had of thee! Can breaking necks, or leaping ditches, Or yelping tongue, which fo bewitches, Or coming up at death of hare, With gold or int'rest e'er compare? The mifer hath his joy in hoarding; The tyrant, in the pow'r of lording; The book-worm, in his books and globes; The law and church, in wigs and robes; The debauchee, and lecher fill, On tuft and wine will ever fwill: And all mankind, in their own way, Will after diff'rent pleafures fray. Men change, and are extravagant; You ne'er purfu'd but nature's want, By inftinct limited and bound, Nor fought for aught but fitted hound : Ne'er guzzled wine 'till you were drink; Ne'er left your wife for arrant punk; Nor e'er at quarter fessions fat, To judge a fellow-creature's fate, Whom need, or native freedom, led To shoot a deer, or pheafant, dead.

Thefe guard their country's liberty, And ev'ry measure vile decry; Yet that same freedom thus curtail, By transportation, or by goal.

Then why forfake your liberty, To rail at all mankind like me, The vile affociate of their vice, Their love of whoredoms and of dice?

CERBERUS.

You're too fevere in jibe and flar Of men and dogs, you Coley-Cur: And, Hound, you deem you magnified, Because to noble blood allied. But fince I guarded here in hell, And all their passing numbers tell, 'Twist Philip's fon, and Swift, thy shade, I never have a diff'rence made, Nor knew a w-re's from chafte Lucrece, Virginia's from Rutilia's face; Their dust's the fame ; all shades are pure ; Both man and dog one fate endure; Nor any diff'rence can be made, When dust with dust, compar'd, is laid.

merchant in St Andrews, upon Wednesday the 19th day of September current, at twelve o'clock noon, when it is requested the whole creditors will attend. It is further requested, that the crediters will immediately transmit to Robert Methven, writer in St Andrews, one of the trustees, exact notes of their debts, that he may be enabled to make up and lay before the meeting a full state of the debts due by the bankrupt.——Not to be repeated.

THE Creditors of the deceased CHARLES DALRYMPLE of Orangefield, Efg; are requested to lodge states of the debts due by him to them, in the hands of Charles Shaw writer in Ayr, on or before the 1st of October next; and this the trustees think the more necessary, as they intend forthwith to follow out the purposes of the trust-deed, by selling off certain parts of the estate of the deceased and his family, to enable them to pay off the said debts.

N. B. The trust-deed is lodged in the hands of the faid Charles Shaw for the inspection of all concerned, and that those creditors who have not acceded thereto may now sign the deed of accession, one copy of which is lodged with Mr Shaw, and another with Mr Thomas Adair writer to the fignet, Edinburgh.
